Hotels

Railway Hotel
Royal Oak Hotel, Denny, is still the acknowledged establishment for superior sitting and airy bedrooms, and under the same management, Mr Dunsmore, the proprietor. Besides being cyclists' quarters, Mrs Dunsmore has much pleasure in making the hotel a veritable place of comfort for all members and clubs who halt here.
The stabling is roomy and safe and the coach house dry, where machines can be put under cover from sunshine or wet. A dark room is attached for photography. Carriage hirers may count on Mr Dunsmore's long experience and careful attention to the men, post boys and horses, and while taking this opportunity to intimate that he has again entered (as at Whitsunday last) on a long lease, it will be his constant endeavour, with the assistance of his family, to merit that share of patronage he has had extended to him during the last thirty years. Telegrams with instructions will have prompt attention. John

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

Liverpool Mercury.—To the tourists in Scotland MacDonald's Guides are as indispensable, and, we may add, as well known as 'Baedeker' is on the continent of Europe. The text is just what the text of such a book should be—clear and concise in its directions, full of interesting details, and not too diffuse.

Brechin Advertiser.—Have enjoyed wide popularity. They are greatly appreciated by the tourist, and much valued as books of reference by the student of history as well as the antiquarian.

Torquay Directory.—No one should undertake to spend a holiday in Scotland without having this book in his possession.

Liverpool Daily Post.—It includes within its purview out of the way places and villages which are usually neglected by compilers of guide-books. The illustrations are very numerous. The maps and plans are clear and useful.

Scottish Leader.—Seems well contrived to help the tourist to the utmost amount of enjoyment with the least waste of effort.

Dundee Advertiser.—Informs readers of the notable associations of all the lochs, towns, villages, and mountains of Scotland.

Daily Free Press.—Its value is also enhanced by profuse illustrations and maps of the principal cities.

Edinburgh Evening News.—Gives a great deal of information in comparatively small compass.

Life of Man Times.—No better guide to Scotland could be found than MacDonald's latest.

Hawick Advertiser.—Fully entitled to take first place among publications of its kind.

Oban Telegraph.—Admirably adapted to meet the requirements of the touring tribe.

Duncan Observer.—Handy, cheap, and popular, worthy of wide circulation.

Northern Advertiser.—Well printed and elegantly bound.

Glenburgh Times.—We have pleasure in commending such a sensible and reliable handbook.

Monk's Herald.—Indispensable to tourists, and nobody who contemplates a journey northward should be without it.

Perthshire Advertiser.—It ought to be on the commercial-room or drawing-room table of every hotel where tourists are likely to frequent.

Leith Burghs Pilot.—All the passing visitor desires is here, and he needs no more.

Shetland News.—Complete, accurate, concise, and not too bulky.

Morecombe Visitor.—Full of racy descriptions of all places of historical interest.

Morning Post.—Carefully written, profusely illustrated, and supplies every want of the modern tourist in fair Scotia.

Scotsman.—The usual information found in such works is concisely stated, well arranged, and made easy of reference.

Leeds Mercury.—Widely known and valued for the fulness and accuracy of the information they contain.

Newcastle Daily Chronicle.—Gives a concise account of all interesting places and objects in Scotland, pointing out what is curious or important in the various localities, or venerable as the remains of antiquity.

Daily Telegraph.—For those who propose a journey to the land of the mountains and the flood it may be commended.

Yorkshire Post.—The work gives a comprehensive but concise account of all that is likely to interest a visitor to Scotland.

Manchester Guardian.—Appears to have substantiated claims upon the favour of the traveller who is seeking "Caledonia, stern and wild."

Sunder Daily News.—There is simply nothing like these Guides to be had in Scotland or anywhere else; and thousands of tourists in Scotland have found them indispensable.

North British Daily Mail.—Is profusely illustrated and fully indexed, deals with all places of interest in Scotland.

Arbroath Guide.—Useful to tourists and valuable as a book of reference.

Jedburgh Gazette.—The arrangement is excellent, the information well selected and accurate.

North British Agriculturist.—A very head-ideal of a tourists' guide.

Ayr Observer.—Excellent, cheap, and handy.

John O'Grady's Journal.—A most valuable compendium over Scotland.

Kelso Mail.—No place of consequence is passed over, and the points of interest are in every case faithfully recorded.

Scottish Border Record.—Unrivalled; the descriptive, historical, and literary references are wonderfully accurate.

The Buteman.—Well got up, profusely illustrated, and a marvel of cheapness.

Scottish Highlander.—Invaluable to tourists, and should not be a little interesting to residents in the various localities as well.

Fife Herald.—No guide-book to Scotland so complete and so richly adorned has been published at anything like the money in our time.

Elgin Courier.—Full of information well brought up to date, and is a useful rade mameum for trippers in any part of Scotland.

Worcester Chronicle.—It seems difficult how any tourist can thoroughly see any part of Scotland without its use.

Hamilton Advertiser.—The information imparted is full, accurate, and well arranged.

May be had of all Booksellers, News-vendors, and at the Railway Bookstalls, or of the Publishers, WM. MACDONALD & CO. Limited, London, Edinburgh, and Dublin.

SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.

BRITISH, COLONIAL, AND FOREIGN MERCANTILE GUIDE.

This Section, added at the solicitation of many of our subscribers, has been much appreciated, as it forms a most useful GUIDE to BUYERS, and more so in consequence of many leading and influential firms having inserted particulars of their various specialities, under the several classifications or trade headings, rendering it more serviceable than a mere list of names.

This Section is compiled without any pretensions to completeness, it being necessary to make a nominal (but necessary) charge for inserting names, to enable us to continue to issue the work at a popular price, so that its extensive circulation should not be impaired.

EDINBURGH, metropolis of Scotland, seat of the college of justice, or court of session, which is the supreme court of Scotland; of the judiciary exchequer, and other courts; a university city, royal and parliamentary burgh, the county town of Edinburghshire, and the place of the annual meeting of general assemblies of both the Church of Scotland and the Free Church, and of the Synod of the United Presbyterian Church; a city of great antiquity, was for many centuries seat of royal administration and the meeting place of parliament. It figured so long and prominent in national events that its history is much connected with the general history of Scotland. Of late years it has undergone costly improvements and progressive extensions, so vast that it would be out of place in these limits to enter into detail. It measures—exclusive of important suburbs—about two miles from east to west, and about 2½ miles from north to south. The public buildings are numerous and attractive, many of them magnificent edifices. Among those of most interest are:—Holyrood Palace; the Castle; Parliament House; the University; the New University Buildings, including the McEwan Hall (1897), gifted by Wm. McEwan, M.P. (citizen); New North Bridge (1897); Usher Town Hall (in progress, 1898), gifted by Andrew Usher (citizen); Museum of Science and Art, Antiquarian Museum; Phrenological Museum; Heriot's Hospital, completed 1650 at a cost of £30,000; Royal Exchange (1761) £31,000; Bank of Scotland (1806) £75,000; County Buildings (1817) £15,000; Register House (1820) £80,000, since added to; High School (1827) £30,000; Edinburgh Academy (1824) £20,000; Royal College of Surgeons (1833) £20,000; the Orphan Hospital (1833) £16,000; Royal Institute (1836) £40,000; Corn Exchange (1849) £20,000; Donaldson's Hospital (1851) £100,000; British Linen Co.'s Bank (1852) £30,000; Stewart's Hospital (1853) £30,000; Art Galleries (1858) £40,000; General Post Office (1866) £120,000; Sheriff Court Buildings (1868) £44,000; Fettes' College (1870) £150,000; Maternity Hospital (1878) £10,000; the New Royal Infirmary (1879) £380,000; National Portrait Gallery (1889) gifted to the city by John Ritchie Findlay, proprietor of the "Scotsman." Free Library (1890) £50,860 (the gift of Mr A. Carnegie), contains 70,000 vols.; has 45,000 readers in lending department. Its chief industries are printing, publishing, and brewing. It has a Royal Lunatic Asylum, Blind Asylum, Deaf and Dumb Institution, &c., Botanic Gardens and Arboretum, several public parks and squares adorned by many monuments, of which the most conspicuous is Sir Walter Scott's, completed in 1844 at a cost of £15,650. The university has obtained at least as high a medical reputation as any in Europe, while the other educational establishments are justly celebrated. It will compare favourably with any city in Great Britain for the number and importance of its benevolent and charitable establishments, and valuable endowments for the maintenance and instruction of the young. It has a variety of scientific and literary institutions. The religious and missionary societies are most prominent. The ecclesiastical buildings are both numerous and handsome, several of which are highly interesting. The Churches are Established, Free, United Presbyterian, Episcopal, Baptist, Congregational, Evangelical Union, Wesleyan, Roman Catholic, Original Secession, Primitive Methodist, Catholic Apostolic, Society of Friends, Unitarian, and a Jewish Synagogue. It has railway communication to all parts, and two handsome stations. Its seaports are Leith and Granton. Pop. 261,261, inhabited houses 51,075. The GLASGOW, the commercial and manufacturing capital of Scotland, and, in aggregate importance, the second city in the empire. Situate on the Clyde, and 47½ miles by rail from Edinburgh. Is the political capital of Lanarkshire, a royal and parliamentary burgh, a university city, seat of judiciary and sheriff courts, and a head port. Originated from the cathedral founded about A.D. 560; was made a royal burgh in 1180; was but a small burgh of limited extent in 1550. Its great and continued prosperity—entirely the result of enterprise and skill in manufacturers and commerce—only dates from last century. Its present vast predominance testifies to the vitality and energy of its citizens. In the fifty years between 1831 and 1881 it considerably more than trebled its population, and now, including suburbs, measures 6 miles by 4½, and is of such magnitude that space will not admit here of even a meagre description. The public buildings are both numerous and handsome, and include many very interesting and noble structures. The Cathedral, the University, the Merchants' House, the General Post Office, and the Royal Exchange, may be mentioned. The Municipal buildings recently erected cost about £500,000, including £165,000 paid for the site. The charitable institutions are many, the most important being the Royal Infirmary, Western Infirmary, Fever Hospitals, Small-pox Hospital, Maternity Hospital, Asylum for the Blind, Deaf and Dumb Institute, Lunatic Asylum, &c. It has various scientific and literary institutions, including a museum and two public libraries, also a Royal Botanic Garden, several public parks and many monuments—no fewer than 11 standing in George Square. The Churches are Established, Free, United Presbyterian, Episcopal, Baptist, Evangelical Union, Congregational, Wesleyan, Roman Catholic, Catholic Apostolic, Methodist, Christadelphian, Original Secession, Unitarian, Plymouth Brethren, Society of Friends, Christian Brethren, and a Jewish Synagogue.—The harbour shared in the prosperity of the city, and by extensions from time to time, necessitated by increasing trade, acquired its present greatness at a cost of over £11,000,000. For about 2½ miles from Glasgow Bridge the river presents the appearance of an immense dock, and is deep enough for the largest sea-going ships. The harbour possesses all the appliances of a first-class port, and is connected with the whole railway system of the kingdom. The export, import, and coasting trades are enormous. For sailings of steamers see list of Shipping Offices. Pop. of parliamentary burgh 564,968, inhabited houses 117,537. Pop. of city and suburbs 792,728, inhabited houses 162,064. The parishes are: Barony 309,812, City 176,824, Govan 280,275

The Insurance Record

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—We have much pleasure in recording the issue of the "Scottish Directory and Gazetteer," published by the well-known firm of Wm. Macdonald & Co., Ltd., of Edinburgh, London, and Dublin. The publication grows in size and utility each successive year, and the proprietors have spared neither trouble nor expense to ensure reliability. . . . The printing, binding, and general appearance of the directory, reflect the utmost credit upon those responsible for its production.

Birmingham and Aston Chronicle

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—This highly valuable work has now appeared. . . . To commercial men the work ought to prove indispensable, and it is deserving of a large sale.

Liverpool Daily Post

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—The annual edition has been issued, and will be welcomed by all who have business interests in Scotland.

The North British Agriculturist

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—The work may be safely reckoned one of the best publications of its kind that has yet appeared.

Leeds Mercury

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—A new edition has been issued of this valuable and carefully compiled work—a bulky volume, each edition being larger than its predecessor.

Invention

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—We are very pleased to welcome a new edition of this most useful work. It will be observed that great care has been taken in its compilation. The paper on which this work is printed is wonderfully strong and good, and the whole appearance of the Directory is such as should cause Messrs Kelly to look to their laurels. In conclusion, we may say that all possible justice has been done to the subject-matter dealt with, and the general arrangement of the information contained.

Leith Burghs Pilot

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—Much pains must have been exercised in compiling the work, which as a book of reference will be found invaluable in all business premises.

The British and Colonial Printer and Stationer

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—Numerous improvements have been made in the present edition of this useful Directory.

Greenock Telegraph

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—An indispensable guide to Scottish traders, and should find its place in their counting-houses; skilfully and clearly arranged.

Scottish Highlander

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—As a book of reference the work is of great value. The Gazetteer supplies a want which all feel in connection with the postal, telegraphic, railway, or shipping interest.

The Financial Standard and Imperial Post

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—The "Scottish Directory and Gazetteer" is a work of such manifest merit that it would be superfluous to enlarge upon its features.

The Colliery Guardian

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—The Directory has received the highest commendation in the British and Foreign Press. We cannot imagine anything better, and are glad there is a work so good.

Iron Trade Circular (Ryland's)

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—The volume contains a complete directory of Edinburgh and Leith, Glasgow, Dundee, Aberdeen, Greenock, Paisley, &c., alphabetically arranged. . . . The Directory is accompanied with a coloured map of Scotland, and town plans.

Newcastle Daily Chronicle

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—The present issue, which has been carefully brought up to date, and includes many thousand additional names, fully justifies the claim of the work to take a high place among publications of its kind.

The Accountant

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—This work has been received, and is a great improvement on its predecessors. . . . The arrangement is good, and the book will be indispensable to those having extensive business arrangements with Scotland.

CORK CLOTHING FACTORY.

HOME MANUFACTURES SUCCESSFUL.

Men's, Youths, and Boys' Clothing for Spring and Summer.

BETTER MADE, BETTER FITTING, AND CHEAPER THAN ANY IMPORTED GOODS.

It is now generally admitted that the Goods Manufactured at the "Cork Clothing Factory" are Superior to any other make known to the Trade, while the Prices are as low as the most inferior. This superiority has been attained chiefly by employing the best modern labour-saving machinery, and having all the work done in the Factory under capable and careful supervision, instead of subdividing amongst sweaters, as is customary elsewhere. The production has been nearly doubled for the past two years, but, as it has still been inadequate to our requirements, we have made further extensions to enable us to execute our orders promptly during the coming season. The following is a list of some towns where our Goods are sold by most of the Principal Drapers and Clothiers:—

Lectures at Montrose and Aberdeen, by the Rev. J. N. Stuart, subject "Life and Times of Thomas Moore."

"The feature of the musical part was the beautiful solos, on Ireland's national instrument, by Mr Jukes."—Montrose Chronicle.

"A most enjoyable contribution to the entertainment was the harp solos played by Mr Jukes, who came specially from Edinburgh to render a number of the Poet's choicest melodies."—Aberdeen Gazette.

"I have great pleasure in bearing testimony to the value of the services rendered on the harp by Mr Jukes, during his visit to the Theatre Royal, King's Lynn. He is certainly an effective and brilliant player, and touches his instrument with a hand that speaks eloquently of the innate powers of the true musician, developed by careful training and unremitting practice. His performances were listened to with marked attention by the dilettante, who plainly shewed their appreciation of this tasteful Player's merit."—From R. Wardale, Lessee and Manager.

LORD GLENESK.

"Mr Galletly's work has a worthy shrine, and will long live as a valuable guide and informant in Norman and Scottish Architecture."

From the Scotsman.—"The drawings would in themselves be invaluable as documents for study to a man who has no opportunity of visiting the architectural remains from which they are taken; and their value in this respect is much enhanced by the descriptive letterpress that accompanies them."

From the Journal of the British Archaeological Association.—"Not only architects and antiquarians, but also general lovers of that which is beautiful as well as ancient, will never regret their acquisition of Mr Taylor's book."

Under the "Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Acts, 1883 and 1885," which are now in operation, Inventions may be provisionally protected at a nominal fee, and ample time is given for experimentally testing and perfecting improvements before Complete Specifications and Drawings have to be filed. Inventors are therefore recommended to secure Provisional Protection before undertaking costly trials.

Full information regarding cost and procedure on application for Patents will be found in the "INVENTOR'S GUIDE," which may be had gratis.

GOLD MEDAL awarded at Inventions Exhibition, 1885.

THE "EJECTOR-CONDENSER."

Morton's Patent Extended for Great Merit.

THE "EJECTOR-CONDENSER" produces a full vacuum without an Air Pump, in all kinds of Steam Engines, Steam Pumps, and Sugar Pans, and when applied to existing Non-condensing Engines gives a saving of 25 to 50 per cent. of steam, or an equivalent increase of power. For Winding Engines this is the only safe condenser in use, as the vacuum is constant whether the engines are at rest or in motion, and many are working with great success. These apparatus, from their saving in steam alone, very soon repays their outlay cost.

THE FIXED DOUBLE NOZZLE AUTOMATIC INJECTORS feed water of high temperature into Steam Boilers. These Injectors and the WATER LIFTERS are the most simple and efficient apparatus in use for raising and forcing water. Full information and prices on application to

THE LATEST AND BEST WORK OF ITS KIND.

A GENERAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY OF IRELAND.

PRESS OPINIONS.

Freeman.—Indispensable to all firms carrying on business either in or with Ireland. Seldom has a work deserved its title better than that which we have now before us; it is, indeed, in the fullest sense, a complete and perfect "Business Directory of Ireland," comprising within its pages compendious alphabetical and classified lists of all the principal manufacturers, merchants, shippers, and traders in all the chief cities, towns, and trade centres. Accuracy, which is the greatest essential of a directory, is here observed in the minutest detail, and the work reflects much credit on the care, industry, and patience employed by its compiler.

Irish Times.—In the "Irish Directory," merchants and traders will find all the special information for which they have hitherto looked in vain. The book contains the most exhaustive alphabetical and classified lists of the principal merchants, traders, and manufacturers to be found in the smallest or in the largest Irish business towns.

Liverpool Mercury.—This is an exceedingly useful compilation, the only exclusively mercantile Directory published for Ireland, and will be found most useful.

Morning Mail.—We have nothing but praise for the arrangement of the compilation and the excellent taste with which the volume is brought out. We believe that such a work is one that must appeal strongly to the business public of the whole Kingdom, or that part of it having commercial dealings with Ireland.

United Ireland.—The plan adopted is simple but exhaustive; there is no complicated arrangement. To mercantile firms the book will be invaluable, as the lists of principal merchants, manufacturers, and traders in all the Irish cities and towns are given in a handy and easily accessible shape. The work as a whole is highly creditable.

Irish Catholic.—The work seems to us to form an invaluable adjunct of the counting-house, the study, and the hotel. No business establishment should be without it. We trust the "Irish Directory" will have the large sale it deserves.

Evening Telegraph.—A work of an exceptionally useful nature is the "Irish Directory." The publication represents a vast amount of labour on the part of the compilers; and the manner in which the information is presented adds much to its value, and bespeaks success in every way.

Queen.—To men of business, books of this class are always useful, and not to them alone. Tourists and visitors staying for a while in Ireland would be thankful for such aid as this volume supplies, and, therefore, hotels and other places of resort should have it at hand.

The Caterer.—To all those that are in any way associated with, or interested in, the industries of Ireland, this exhaustive business register ought to come as a "boon and blessing." The compiler has certainly done his work well; it will usefully reinforce the reference books of the commercial room.
